

Dean Read, 26, leaves wife who is pregnant with their first child

Rams star dies after collapsing during home game

By William Mata

A RUGBY player who died after collapsing during a game has been denied the joy of seeing his first child be born.

Dean Read, 26, was rushed to hospital after he fell to the ground towards the end of Harlow Rams' game with Maldon on Saturday.

He died on Sunday morning from an unknown cause. He leaves behind pregnant wife Lucy, whom he married last year.

The official match report stated the Rams, the second team of Harlow Rugby Club, had taken a 79-0 lead late into the game at their ground in Ram Gorse, Harlow, when tragedy struck.

Something wrong

The report read: "As the players retired into their own half it became apparent there was something wrong with Dean Read and the match was halted while he received treatment.

"This led to an ambulance being called and Dean being rushed to hospital."

Tributes have poured in for Dean, who previously studied at Harlow

GAME CHANGER: Dean Read was 'integral' to Rams' success

College and was an integral part of the Rams' recent success.

The match report continued: "The Rams squad has gradually, over the last two seasons, become a very strong unit and, as recent results show, a very fine team.

"Dean Read has been a major part of that revival. On Saturday

If you are eligible for free flu jab you need it

A MEDIC at Princess Alexandra Hospital is urging residents eligible for a free flu vaccination to make sure they have one.

Nancy Fontaine, chief nurse and deputy chief executive of the hospital in Hamstel Road has alerted those with diabetes, heart, kidney or liver disease and those who have had a stroke.

She is particularly keen for the message to reach sufferers of chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD), a condition that affects the lungs and airways, making breathing difficult.

Speaking ahead of World COPD Day on Wednesday, November 16, Ms Fontaine said: "People want to stay out of hospital, so we are highlighting the NHS campaign Stay Well This Winter.

"Being immunised is a first step in fighting flu. We would encourage all at risk groups to have the free vaccination."

She added: "Don't put off getting the flu vaccination. If you're eligible get it now. It's free because you need it."

They are available from your GP or selected pharmacies.

Councillors slam 'divisive' amendment

MEMBERS of Harlow Council opposed a "divisive" amendment that proposes more government control in drawing up a Local Plan.

Amendments to the Neighbourhood Planning Bill would see central government gain powers to ask a county council to produce a Local Plan for a town council if they are not making timely progress.

Jon Clempner, council leader, who proposed the motion to oppose the amendment, said: "The terminology used in the amendment is divisive.

"It creates the inaccurate perception that local democracy within communities is hierarchical."

Harlow Council is in the process of drawing up a Local Plan for the district which is due to be published in the next few months.

BENEFITS CAP: How new regulations are likely to affect us

COUNTING THE PENNIES: Families will be affected by changes to the benefit system

Children could be among those hit

TENS of thousands of children in the East of England are set to be affected by the change to the cap.

According to research carried out by The Children's Society, 22,000 children in the region live in households in line to lose money.

The charity estimates 550 children will be hit in Broxbourne, Epping Forest and Harlow, and 280 in East Hertfordshire and North Hertfordshire.

The charity fears the cut could lead to more families being made homeless or forced to move away from their children's schools and friends.

The charity's chief executive, Matthew Reed, said: "Given the Prime Minister's aspiration of making Britain a country that works for everyone, it is deeply disappointing that the Government is pushing ahead with an ongoing agenda of cuts to financial support for children in low-income families."

Unnecessary

"Making savings by cutting help for the poorest children is unnecessary and unfair."

"This is a blunt instrument trying to solve a complex problem."

"The policy is targeted at workless adults, but the reality is that children are considerably more likely than adults to lose out and there is nothing fair about trying to balance the books on the backs of poor children."

The Chartered Institute of Housing estimates more than 300,000 children will be affected nationwide. The Department for Work and Pensions disputes this figure, and argues it fails to take into account that the cap will move more people into work.

FEARS: The Children's Society in unhappy

Families to feel the pinch after changes

By Sam Meadows

sam.meadows@hertsexnews.co.uk

HUNDREDS of families are set to lose as much as £115-a-week after changes to the Government benefits cap.

On Monday, the limit on total benefits a family can receive dropped from £26,000 a year to £20,000.

In Harlow, around 200 households could be affected by the changes which include Child Tax Credits and Universal Credit.

Dig deeper

The money will be taken from claimants' housing benefit – paid direct to landlords – meaning many will have to dig deeper to pay the rent.

Terrie Alafat, chief executive of the Chartered Institute of Housing, said the new cap would put many at risk of losing their homes and render some housing unaffordable.

She said: "The results of our research are extremely worrying. It shows that the reduction in total benefits is going to hit some of the most vulnerable families of all sizes."

"These families will lose out when the cap comes into effect from November 7 and in

BENEFITS AT A GLANCE

- Bereavement Allowance
- Child Benefit
- Child Tax Credit
- Employment and Support Allowance (unless you get the 'support' component)
- Housing Benefit
- Incapacity Benefit
- Income Support
- Jobseeker's Allowance
- Maternity Allowance
- Severe Disablement Allowance
- Widowed Parent's Allowance (or Widowed Mother's Allowance or Widows Pension if you started getting it before April 9 2001)
- Universal Credit (unless you've had a work capability assessment and aren't fit for work)

Benefits which are exempt from the cap

- Armed Forces

- Armed Forces Independence Payment
- Attendance Allowance
- Disability Living Allowance (DLA)
- Employment and Support Allowance (support component only)
- Industrial Injuries Benefits (and equivalent payments as part of a War Disablement Pension or the Armed Forces Compensation Scheme)
- Personal Independence Payment (PIP)
- Universal Credit payment for 'limited capability for work and work-related activity'
- War pensions
- War Widow's or War Widower's Pension
- Working Tax Credits (available for those who work 16 hours a week or more) many cases will straight away face a substantial gap between their rent and the help they receive to pay for housing.

"Worryingly, our analysis shows many families could be one redundancy or a period of ill health away from being in this situation."

"We are seriously concerned that this could have a severe impact on these families, make housing in large sections of the country unaffordable and risk worsening what is already a growing homelessness problem.

"This is a measure which seriously risks undermining the Government's commitment to make society fairer for families."

Transition

Councillor Mark Williams, Harlow's cabinet member for housing, said: "The council will continue to support those affected with budgeting advice and support to assist their transition to a lower income."

"In addition, the council will continue to work with tenants who fall into arrears under our "can't pay/won't pay" ethos to ensure appropriate support and assistance is provided."

A spokesman for the council said anyone who will struggle to pay their rent can apply for discretionary housing payments by visiting harlow.gov.uk/extra-help

There will also be a benefit cap advice day at Harlow Job Centre on Tuesday, November 22, between the hours of 10am and 1pm.

Cap will be felt by 100,000 people, according to research

CASH CUTS: Some families will lose £115 a week

ON MONDAY the cap on benefits was slashed by the Government.

According to research, the change will affect more than 100,000 families around the country, but will it affect you? And if so, how?

The benefit cap was introduced in 2010 by then-Chancellor George Osborne and is a limit on the total benefits one household can receive.

The cap was set at £26,000 and covers most benefits, including Child Benefit, Child Tax Credit, Jobseeker's Allowance, Income Support and Universal Credit.

However, on Monday, the cap fell to £20,000 for families living outside London, and £13,400 for single people without children.

This could lead some families to lose as much as £115 a week. The money will be taken from housing benefit, which goes directly to landlords, meaning many will have to fork out extra money to meet their rent.

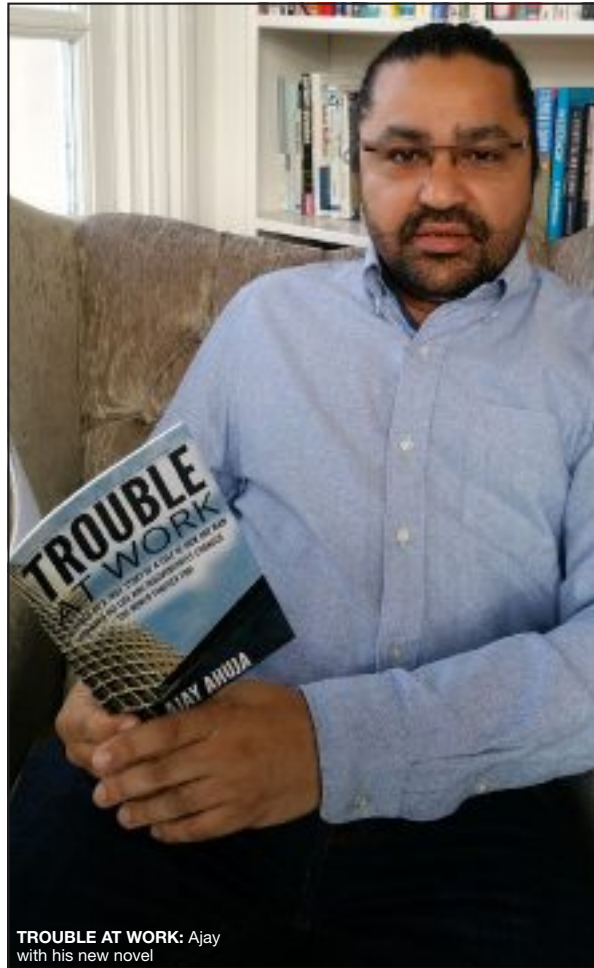

The Department for Work and Pensions wrote to every family affected in the summer and again in September so if you are in line to be hit, you should already know.

But if you are not sure, then the Government's benefit cap calculator can help. Make sure you have your documents at hand. It can be found by visiting www.gov.uk/benefit-cap-calculator

If you are in real hardship following the change, you can apply for a discretionary housing payment to help you meet your rent. To apply, contact your local council.

Harlow writer hopes one-character book is world's shortest

TROUBLE AT WORK: Ajay
with his new novel

Believe it or not, what you're now reading is much longer

By Charlotte Page

A MAN from Harlow has attempted to break the world record for writing the world's shortest novel.

Trouble At Work is the new book written by Ajay Ahuja, a novel dedicated to the inventor of email.

The 44-year-old claims that his new book is just one word, but more precisely, just one character long.

"Most of the story is on the outside of the book.

Judge

"So you can literally judge the book by its cover!" said Mr Ahuja.

Using a play on the word character, Mr Ahuja reveals that his novel only has one character but refers to several on the back cover.

"That provides the intrigue," he said.

"All is revealed when you open up the book."

Having heard that the shortest novel in history written by Ernest Hemingway only contained six words, Mr Ahuja was determined to beat it by creating a novel that was unbeatable.

"I have written the shortest novel in the world which I believe is unbeatable as the book contains only one character."

Mr Ahuja's record is currently pending at The Guinness Book of World Records and he will find out in December if he is to take the title.

There is currently no record for the shortest novel written in the Guinness Book of World Records.

The property investor realised his love for writing when he began writing non-fiction 16 years ago, but as of last year Mr Ahuja has moved into writing fiction.

"I have to say it has grabbed me as I love the fact that you have full control on what happens and when."

the Rams won 79-0. We also lost a friend."

A spokesman for Harlow Rugby Club said: "The club sends its heartfelt condolences to Dean's wife, family and friends who remain in our thoughts and we ask that their privacy be respected at this very sad time."

Chris Davies, a friend of Mr Read, has raised £3,685 for the Read family through online fundraising website JustGiving.

Mr Davies wrote on the page: "I'd like for us all to try and show our love for an amazing person that was Dean Read.

"I'd like to try and help with any costs for the family on such a terrible and tragic time and hopefully help Dean's beautiful wife Lucy with their baby when it is born, who Dean unfortunately will never meet."

To donate to the campaign visit www.justgiving.com and search for Chris Davies.

A campaign on another online fundraising site gofundme has also been started in his memory to raise money towards a funeral or memorial.

SUITED: Dean Read, second right, with members of Harlow Rams

James Reyland, a friend of Mr Read who started the campaign, wrote on the page: "I heard today that an old friend Dean Read sadly passed away taken from his wife and family far too soon.

"I would like to raise some money for his dad Steve and the rest of the family to spend on Dean towards funeral costs or a nice memorial.

"Please do what you can to help this family at such a sad time."

The page has currently raised £1,115 to far exceed a goal of £500. To donate to the page visit: www.gofundme.com/rip-dean-read

How does an ordinary housewife become a notorious international criminal?

When Anne Darwin told the world - and her family - that her husband, John, had disappeared while canoeing in the North Sea, her life changed forever. She had just lied to the police, the press, her friends and neighbours and her own sons. While her husband hid next door, Anne claimed the life insurance - then left with him to start a new life in Panama.

'It felt like the right time to tell my own story, in my own words...'

COMING TO TOWN: The Coca-Cola Christmas truck

Coca-Cola truck is on its way

COCA-COLA has announced that its iconic Christmas lorry will pull up in the town centre next month.

The truck, which is famous for appearing in the annual festive advertisements, can be seen on Wednesday, December 7 from 1pm to 9pm at Market Square, Harlow.

A promotional Coca-Cola Christmas Truck Tour will take in 44 locations nationwide to indicate that "holidays are coming" to quote the advert's theme song.

Staff will hand out cans of Coca-Cola, Diet Coke and Coke Zero while an animation will play into the evening.

Aedamar Howlett, marketing director of the brand, said: "Coca-Cola is synonymous with the Christmas season and it's no secret that our much-loved Christmas Truck Tour marks the unofficial countdown to Christmas.

"We can't wait to reveal this year's route and start spreading holiday cheer across the UK."

Council house reform is contested by councillors

Claim that young people 'could be made homeless' by legislation

CHANGES to the Government's council house policy, that could see residents given fixed-term tenancies, are being contested by Harlow councillors.

Under The Housing and Planning Act 2016, rents will be raised for residents earning more than £31,000 a year and local authorities will be forced to sell high-value homes.

Critics say the reform will kill off council housing as we know it with a ruling that tenants must buy or vacate the property in a time period of between two and ten years.

Policy

The Conservative Government hailed its policy, which will kick in from April next year, as an extension to right to buy that will encourage home ownership.

But at a full council meeting on Thursday of last week, Councillor Waida Forman, part of the ruling Labour group, put forward a motion for the local authority to unite against the act.

SCENE OF THE PAST? Harlow councillor Rod Truan opens council houses at Riley Mews last year

In launching the motion, which was seconded by fellow Labour councillor Mark Wilkinson, she said: "It is not in the interests of current tenants and those in housing need and will not address the affordable housing crisis nationally."

Residents earning more than the £31,000 threshold will be taxed 15p per pound.

Mr Wilkinson commented: "Initial analysis suggests that 40 per cent of current council tenants may be affected by the charging of increased rent for those properties considered by the Government of being high value but it appears that those currently in receipt of housing benefit may be excluded.

"It will take money away from some of Harlow's most vulnerable."

Mrs Forman voiced fears that luxury properties could be built on brownfield sites, out of the price range of many residents.

She also expressed her concerns that young people would suffer the most.

"We do not want young people to be homeless, they need a future," said Mrs Forman.

"A home is not a luxury, it's a necessity. Everyone deserves a home."

"Support the motion, this is a cruel act."

Conservative members on the council spoke in support of the act and group leader councillor Andrew Johnson said: "This is freeing and life-changing legislation."

"More than 1.3 million have no right to become a home owner but will with the right to buy under the new act."

Supply

"It will boost the nation's housing supply. Around 120,000 have been helped with help to buy, the act achieves this and will help Harlow's first time buyers."

"The Housing and Planning Act 2016 empowers new home owners."

The council passed the motion to agree the act is not in the interest of tenants and those in housing need.

But the authority will be powerless to stop the Government's act from coming in.

Think I'll have a pint please, Mr President

Publican called Beer is now famous for his looks, too

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A RUNNING joke is set to last the next four years for an Old Harlow Donald Trump lookalike.

While the Republican defied polls to win the US election, the appropriately-named Glenn Beer was at work in The Queen's Head pub in Churchgate Street, where he has become something of a local celebrity.

With blonde hair and rosy cheeks, 66-year-old grandfather-of-two Mr Beer is a splitting image of the President-to-be and has learnt to live with the comparison.

Dead ringer

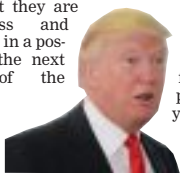

Before Tuesday night's vote he said: "It was my best friend that saw the comparison and my daughter found a photo where I am a dead ringer."

"It does not bother me one bit. 'Nowadays you never know what is going to happen. With Brexit they got that wrong completely.'

Donald was a surprise winner of the election but his Harlow doppelganger said he had no preference for who came up trumps.

He continued: "Trump is a showman but they are both useless and should not be in a position to be the next President of the USA."

THE MAN HIMSELF:
Donald Trump

Mr Beer has lived in Harlow for 12 years and has managed many pubs in his career but is now solely focused on The Queen's Head, which he bought for his 23-year-old daughter Aimee in 2014.

She is now the main landlord with her father looking after administrative tasks.

While Mr Trump has been famous for decades, the comparison was not made until this year. Mr Beer said: "It has got out of hand. It has become a joke around here and even post cards have been delivered to Donald.

"It is a big community and everybody supports their local, they have jumped on the bandwagon."

"I could not give a monkeys. Just about everybody has got a nickname, it's the only way we can keep track of it."

Mr Beer said his family could have been in the pub business since 1770.

The Queen's Head specialises in enjoyable food and good beers while Mr Beer celebrated his birthday on Sunday, the night of the pub's annual bonfire which was attended by more than 500 people.

He added: "Previous to this I was called Grumpy."

"I know this is not going away. It is going to stick for a while."

Labour's pinning hopes on awesome foursome

LABOUR has announced four candidates to stand for election next year to represent Harlow on Essex County Council.

Four of the 75 seats at County Hall are dedicated to Harlow wards and Labour is hoping to defend the three it now holds.

Mike Danvers hopes to be re-elected to represent Harlow North while Karen Clempner and Tony Durcan are standing to defend Harlow West – a ward with two seats.

Reduced

Eugenie Harvey, who reduced the Conservative majority by 16 per cent when she stood in Old Harlow in Harlow Council elections last year, will attempt to win the Conservative-held Harlow South East seat, currently held by Eddie Johnson.

Charlie Cochrane, chairman of Harlow Labour Party, said: "We're very happy with the candidates selected for the four Harlow wards for the county council election next May."

"We have a balance of experience and new energy and we're looking forward to a vigorous campaign to retain the seats we currently hold and to win Harlow South East."

"Central to Labour's campaign will be: A commitment to guarantee free bus passes and transport services for the elderly and young people, a demand for more police and PCSOs back on the streets to curb antisocial behaviour and a fast response approach to pot hole repair and street maintenance."

He added: "What matters most to people about where they live is that streets and other public spaces should be clean, tidy and safe."

"Transport, public and private is also hugely important. Being able to get around is vital for keeping in touch with family and friends, for education, work and shopping."

"The county council has a significant role to play in this and Labour's candidates are committed to delivering these outcomes to Harlow residents."

New two-bed home gets the nod

PROPOSALS for a two-bedroom house in Wharley Hook were approved by Harlow Council's Development Management Committee.

At a meeting last Wednesday, it voted to pass proposals for the Harlow home despite four neighbours raising objections.

The application will mean a new house alongside number 57 Wharley Hook. It will have two new parking spaces and a dropped kerb.

Neighbours noted concerns about issues of parking, road access, television and phone lines as well as noise and traffic.

The planning officer noted in his report: "The proposed development would be well connected to and integrated with the wider settlement, and would make an appropriate visual relationship with that of the form, grain, scale, materials, and details of surrounding area."

Committee members followed the advice of the inspector and granted permission.

A good fit! Budget gym to open in former M&S unit

Fitness centre in expanded Harvey Centre mall will create 40 jobs

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

BUDGET gym chain Xercise4Less is the latest name to confirm it will move into a former Marks and Spencer unit.

The firm's management confirmed their 45th UK centre will open in Broad Walk, Harlow, on Friday, November 25.

The gym will be part of an expanded Harvey Centre mall and will provide 40 jobs.

Darren Pallett, director of property and construction at Xercise4Less, said: "We are thrilled and excited to be opening another gym."

Established

"(We are looking forward to) bringing our established health and fitness offering to the people of Harlow."

More than 400 pieces of equipment will be on offer with running and sled pull tracks available and a dedicated combat zone which will contain a boxing ring and mixed martial arts cage.

The gym will also include a self-contained ladies-only gym, large main studio and spin studio.

There will be Xercise4Kids classes, designed specifically for children aged between three and five, in a bid to help tackle childhood obesity, free to both members and non-members.

Membership starts from £9.99 per month with 200 classes a month offered for free.

The announcement follows news that coffee shops Starbucks and Papa's Café will also move into the unit where Marks and Spencer traded until January last year.

ON THE FLOOR: The squat rack at Xercise4Less

Fitness fanatics will welcome the news that sport food centre Gym's Kitchen will open in close proximity to Xercise4Less. Clothes retailer Peacocks has also confirmed it will move in.

Alex Wagstaff, partner and head of retail at Addington Capital, the developer behind the Harvey Centre project, said: "This has been a major refurbishment."

Demand

"The take-up of the units show there is great demand for retail space within the town centre provided we meet the modern space requirements of today's national retailers."

"We are delighted with the success of the (Harvey Centre) project and look forward to the new units opening in line with the new Cineworld."

We've cracked it: Damaged footpath set to be repaired

CRACKS in a footpath are set to be repaired after months of campaigning by residents and councillors.

Ladyshot woman Robyn, who did not wish to disclose her surname, has been heading up an online campaign to pressure Essex Highways to take action in her Harlow road.

She said: "I reported the cracks in March of this year and I am aware other residents made complaints months ago."

"They came back and gave me some reference numbers so I could see the status of repair online."

Complaint

"It said the complaint had been logged, but after a while the site did not show anything as they were having some issues with their system."

"It is appalling and poses a risk."

Lanie Shears, councillor for Mark Hall ward, which covers Ladyshot, said she logged a report on July 1 in the hope that it could be repaired before anyone was injured.

But as the kerb and paving damage got worse, Robyn stepped up

NOT CRACKING A JOKE: The path is yet to be repaired

her efforts, posting photos on her Twitter page.

She also enlisted the help of another councillor, Ian Beckett, despite the Labour man serving a different town ward.

Robyn added: "I did not get any kind of response until the local councillors kicked off about it, they were superb."

During the episode, Mr Beckett said: "It has been an issue for more than 12 months and it has been reported on more than one occasion."

"We have yet to see any repair work done."

However, Essex Highways got back in touch with Robyn last week to say repairs were finally going to be carried out.

A spokesman from Essex Highways said: "The condition of this pavement has deteriorated since it was last inspected in August."

"Our engineers have inspected the road today and an urgent repair will be carried out."

Robyn then posted an image of barriers set up in Ladyshot to indicate work was to begin although, at the time of writing, she said no work has yet been completed.

Hospice teams up with Harlow chocolatier for this year's festive run

charlotte.page@hertsexsexnews.co.uk

ST CLARE HOSPICE has announced the official sponsors for this year's Santa Dash.

The festive fundraiser will be sponsored by Harlow-based chocolatier The Grown Up Chocolate Company, which is also one of St Clare Hospice's corporate partners.

Owner of The Grown Up Chocolate Company James Ecclestone said: "We are delighted to be able to support our local hospice by sponsoring its 5k Santa fun run.

"I have seen first-hand the incredible care which it offers to our local community, and as a responsible local business who wants to give something back to the people of Harlow, we couldn't hope to support a more worthwhile cause."

The Santa Dash, which will begin in The Water Gardens, will raise funds for the essential services needed at the hospice on Christmas Day.

Celebrating

"Whilst most people will be happily celebrating this special day of the year with their loved ones, some families will be going through one of the toughest journeys of their life," continued Mr Ecclestone.

"To be able to support St Clare in caring for local families who need the support of the hospice on Christmas Day is an immense privilege."

Corporate partnerships manager from the hospice, Amy Jacobs, said: "It is fantastic to be partnering with The Grown Up Chocolate Company to deliver our biggest Christmas fundraiser."

"The significant financial support of the company will cover all

PRESENT AND CORRECT: Father Christmases at last year's Santa Dash

the costs involved in running an event of this size – meaning that every penny raised by participants goes straight back in to funding our care.

She continued: "Our partnership with The Grown Up Chocolate Company offers tangible business benefits to the company, as well as providing vital income for the hospice."

"Sponsoring an event enables companies to raise their profile in the local community, and to help a local charity that many of their employees and customers will be supported by through their lifetime. It really is a win-win relationship."

■ EMPLOYMENT

Was jobs fair a success really?

I WAS wondering what measure Robert Halfon was using when he triumphantly declared that the recent jobs fair held on the October 21 2016 was a great success. I would beg to differ being as I was one of the poor souls ordered to attend on pain of losing benefit if not compliant.

What I found was a litany of apprenticeship providers and employment trainers offering limited opportunities that did not in any way reflect the diverse needs of the local labour market. Indeed, I on reflection cannot recall any employers actively engaging with the attendees and certainly not with the over-50s.

I saw and spoke to Mr Halfon who was seemingly too busy to talk at any length with me, preferring to pose for photos. I only hope he is more strident in Parliament in his post of Apprenticeship Minister because he appeared to know nothing about the topic of financial capability which has been touted as being of critical importance to our young and not so young populace.

■ MENTAL HEALTH

Not enough staff at unit

I HAVE just read your article on the new mental health unit in Harlow. My husband has been under the mental health unit since 2010. He has a care plan every three months, or six weeks if a change in medication.

His last appointment was in July where we were told we could not be told the name of his new psychiatrist as the vacancy had not been filled. To this time the vacancy has still not been filled.

So his care plan has run out and we have no alternative plan to set in motion. This leaves outpatients with no help but a

■ ENVIRONMENT

What a load of rubbish

DURING the last week I needed to take some rubble to the council waste centre in Temple Bank.

Whilst emptying some small sacks of rubble from works carried out by me, in my home, I was informed that due to environmental agency regulations we can now only deposit a maximum of six bags (how big is a bag?) of rubbish per 28 days, when attending the centre in a private vehicle. Anyone using a "trade vehicle" will be refused entry.

We read daily in the newspapers of fly tippers blighting our countryside. Why are our politicians, either national, county or local so encumbered with stupidity? Clearly the way to prevent fly tipping is to make the use of our local authority waste facilities more flexible and openly encourage their use.

Clearly this policy will do no more than to pollute our environment further with unwanted fly tipping: which in turn will cost tax payers considerably more to clean up.

Surely we should encourage the use of the fantastic facilities that we have been able to enjoy, sadly it would seem enjoyed, in the past!

■ PLANNING

Showing a lack of sensitivity

IN the November 3, 2016 edition of the Harlow Star I read the article appertaining to the anger being felt concerning the Harlow North Plans.

I can fully understand the people's strong feelings towards the issue of building new homes in North Harlow and the worries if the infrastructure can cope with such a large development.

Clearly, these are truly debatable items, however I felt total dismay over Councillor Mr Twort's reported conception of Harlow and the unwarranted comments that he did not like Harlow and the only good thing about Harlow was leaving it. I found this derogatory remark unacceptable and out of order especially from someone employed in an official capacity as a councillor. It identifies a real lack of understanding and forethought towards others which only endorses the poor standard of office he represents.

May I remind Mr Twort that not all people have the choice or privilege to live the salubrious world of Much Hadham for whatever reason, clearly he has no compassion to other people's feelings, his remarks are out of place and unbecoming of someone holding an official office

I sadden by the lack of sensitivity shown towards others of different standing, therefore I feel it appropriate that an apology should be forthcoming from Mr Twort and the that official body responsible for his conduct take appropriately steps to officially reprimand him for unjust outburst.

■ CHARITY

Friends set for a cash boost

OUR council chairperson, Edna Stevens has nominated the Friends of Harlow Sculpture and Gibberd Gallery as a special cause during her year in office.

On Friday evening Edna attended the Secret Postcard Auction night at the Gibberd Gallery. This event auctioned original artworks, all postcard size, with all proceeds being shared by the Friends of Harlow Sculpture and Gibberd Gallery and ACAA, an arts education Charity.

During the interval Edna made the draw for the Friends' autumn raffle of a beautiful framed archival Giclee print by Simon Pemberton, 'The Blackest Isles'. The winning number was 156, bought by Katie Clare, a regular visitor to the Gibberd Gallery, from Dodinghurst. The amount raised by the raffle is in excess of £300.

On Sunday night Edna attended the annual bonfire night and firework display in the Town Park and started off the show by lighting the bonfire. During this event a group of Friends were able to make a bucket collection from the crowd raising another £380 plus.

That is £680 in one weekend.

All monies raised for the Friends of Harlow Sculpture and Gibberd Gallery will go towards the care and repair of the town's 84 sculptures – public works of art that we can all enjoy.

The Friends wish to thank everyone who contributed funds to the raffle, the postcard auction and especially the firework night with special thanks to Edna for her support.

Ceremony to remember fallen world war heroes

Gathering at memorial is a special annual occasion

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ONE HUNDRED years after the Battle of the Somme, heroes of both world wars will be remembered.

Despite Harlow New Town not existing at the time, 126 soldiers who lived in the area died in the First World War and 32 in the Second World War.

A service and wreath laying at Netteswell Cross in Harlow Town Park from 10.30am on Remembrance Sunday will be followed by a two-minute silence at 11am.

Councillor Jean Clark will lay a wreath on behalf of the Labour group of Harlow Council.

The portfolio holder for governance is also chairman of a project to remember Harlow soldiers who died in the First World War.

She said: "There was such an appalling loss of life.

"I have been very moved by the stories that I have heard.

"It has confirmed my desire for peace."

Earlier this year Ms Clark laid another wreath to mark the 100th anniversary of the Battle of the Somme in her position as group chairman.

She commented: "I am surprised at the extent of the interest and pleased.

"When we celebrated The Battle of the Somme I laid a wreath and it evoked a tremendous amount of general interest.

"I just chair the group. The members themselves take interest different aspects of the war."

Harlow war history expert Nich Taylor has helped produce a booklet to remember the town's soldiers who died in the First World War.

The second edition was published in 2014 to mark the 100th anniversary of the start and he plans to compile a third edition in 2018 to mark the centenary of the end.

He said: "There are four or five people intending to lay crosses at the four memorials in Harlow on Sunday.

"Those are Great Parndon, Netteswell and Burnt Mill, Potter Street, Lutton and surrounding district and Old Harlow.

"For the past 40 years I have been attending the ceremony at

NEVER FORGET: A previous Remembrance Sunday in Harlow

Netteswell."

The Battle of the Somme was fought from July 1 to November 18 1916 and claimed the lives of more than one million soldiers.

For the past 14 weeks Mr Taylor has exhibited information about the battle in several public spaces including the Harvey Centre.

He said: "There has been lots of interest. Some people have come up and said they don't know what happened to a grandad or a great uncle and we have tracked them down.

"One person found out their relative has a grave in France and she was in floods of tears."

IN BRIEF

Police appeal to find man

A MAN is wanted on suspicion of possession of an imitation firearm with intent to cause fear of violence. Essex Police is appealing for information to trace Michael Butler, 31, of Pittmans Field, Harlow, after the incident in the town in September.

He is described as white, of slim build, 5ft 10ins tall with short light brown hair.

He has a teardrop tattooed under his left eye and the word ENDS tattooed on the right side of his neck.

Anyone with any information is asked to contact Essex Police on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Cast your vote

VOTING is still open to help decide the town's best designed residential and non-residential buildings.

A shortlist has been unveiled for the Harlow Architectural Design Awards (HADAs) with six nominees in each category. A public vote will shape the choice of a judging panel to crown two winners at a ceremony in January.

RECORD BREAKER: Dave the earthworm next to a £5 note

Gardener discovers largest worm the world has ever seen

THE largest giant earthworm has been found in the UK. The record-breaking creature measured in at 40cm and was found in Widnes, Cheshire, living in a vegetable plot by gardener Paul Rees. Mr Rees's stepson George named the worm Dave and the wiggly giant weighs 26g.

Typically worms will only grow to seven or eight centimetres. National Geographic considers 35cm to be the extreme for a worm but Dave has exceeded even that.

The Natural History Museum has taken interest in the find and scientist Emma Sherlock said she was bowled over by the discovery.

She said: "Not only was it really long, it is almost twice as heavy as any other wild earthworm ever seen."

The worm now is preserved in the museum's collections with the Latin name lumbricus terrestris adorning the label. But at George's insistence the name Dave will not be forgotten as museum staff agreed to listing the nickname alongside the official name.

ON THE LOOKOUT: Operation Raptor squads have been patrolling in Essex

Police claim new drugs crackdown has been success

MORE than 90 arrests have been made in the Harlow area since April in a police drugs crackdown.

Operation Raptor, a project to disrupt and dismantle gangs who deal drugs in Essex, has led to £172,000-worth of drugs being seized countywide and 1,300 arrests made.

The West Essex local policing authority has more than played its part in seizing drugs with combined a street value of £13,000, including Class A narcotics such as cocaine and heroin.

Superintendent Paul Wells, who is leading Operation Raptor, said: "I hope these figures help reassure residents that we are working to bring to justice gang members who think they can travel to Essex to commit their crimes."

Unrest

"Drug-dealing and violence between rival gangs understandably causes high levels of unrest in our communities and we will continue to use a variety of tactics to bring to justice those who carry them."

"These statistics speak for themselves and I'm pleased that drugs with the potential to cause harm in our communities and the dealers who sell them are being put taken off our streets."

Operation Raptor squads also offer support to those affected by gang criminality. To combat this officers are also working to educate young people about the realities of gang life.

Superintendent Wells said: "Drug dealing gangs exploit and prey on the vulnerable in our communities, persuading them to carry drugs on their behalf and taking over their homes as a base from which to deal."

Save Our Shops plea as traders present petition

Fears of 'spiral decline' in a retail area perceived as unsafe

charlotte.page@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A PROJECT is under way to improve The Stow with councillors and shoppers concerned the Harlow shopping hatch is in decline.

Following a suspected murder outside a takeaway in the arcade, residents fear the area is unsafe.

Robert Halfon addressed Harlow Council at a meeting on Thursday to ask what the local authority is doing to save it.

The town MP attended with traders from The Stow with a petition to prompt urgent action and asked: "What is the council going to do to help struggling businesses and regeneration of the area?"

Jon Clempner, council leader, responded: "There is ongoing dialogue with retailers as the council develops improvement plans and initiatives."

"A project is under way to work with retailers to look at options for environmental improvements."

Support

He explained that retailers will be contacted by the chairman of the council's strategy and economic development committee, who can offer business support, information and advice.

Mr Clempner added that bold ideas, such as allowing cars passage through the currently-pedestrianised area, were being considered.

He added: "The council is committed to doing all it can to improve The Stow for residents, businesses and the community as a whole."

Arkadiusz Jozwik, a 40-year-old Polish national, died on August 29 after being assaulted at The Stow, prompting a murder-style investigation and international media focusing on the hatch.

Mr Halfon said: "Since the tragedy took place there is the possibility for spiral decline in The Stow."

"There is an urgent need for a number of measures to be taken, partly because people are not going to The Stow and there has been an increase of

CHALLENGE: Traders and MP Robert Halfon (inset) are asking for action to revive The Stow's fortunes; Harlow Council leader Jon Clempner, right, said there were ongoing improvement plans and initiatives antisocial behaviour."

The MP said he wanted to see an increase in signage and CCTV while he thought rents should be cut to help businesses and free parking should be extended beyond one hour.

"I cannot stress how urgent this action is needed," he added.

Shopper Julie Kay, 45, said: "I've lived near The Stow for 18 years and back then it wasn't too bad."

"I think opening up the through road is asking for trouble. People living above the shops won't want that. [The Stow] is installed with security cameras but apparently they're not working."

Fellow shopper Carol Hayden, 58, said: "I think The Stow is absolutely fine but better security would bring more people. People would come if they knew that it was safer."

"A lot of these shops have to deal with groups of young people on a daily basis and it's intimidating. A lot of these stores have been here for a long time, they wouldn't want to have to move."

Alan Peat, 58, said: "I come to The Stow every other day. Shops are suffering because of supermarkets like Tesco and Aldi, it's not as popular as it once was."

"Parking is always a problem in the Stow."

392 bus route is axed – but who knows when?

A VITAL bus route used by workers and schoolchildren will soon be cancelled – but the operator cannot say exactly when.

The 392 service running between Harlow Town and Rye Park will no longer operate, TrustyBus has confirmed. But despite more than week of inquiries by Star reporters, the firm could not give a definitive date for the cancellation, although it intimated the service would not be operating by Christmas.

Naazing resident, Dawn Maxen, works on Hoddesdon High Street and claims that the cancellation leaves her no choice but to take a taxi to work and back – which will cost around £400 each month.

Rely

She said: "So many schoolchildren and elderly people rely on this bus and now they have no way to and from Hoddesdon."

The 392 runs once an hour between Harlow Town and Rye Park, stopping in Hoddesdon High Street en route.

Mark Bowden, director of Galleon Travel, which runs TrustyBus services, said: "We have undertaken a review of our commercial services and due to the low usage this service is no longer viable as a commercial operation."

"This has been caused by rising fuel costs and rising insurance costs caused by the no-win, no-fee culture of 'let's claim for everything' and of course it's the end user who suffers the consequence of this."

"Other services that we operate have also been reviewed and cut backs have been made elsewhere."

QUIZ: Fundraisers at Passmores Academy in Harlow

Fundraisers test the old grey matter

A FAMILY smashed the target set for a fundraising event in memory of their dad.

The Beament family, which lost its patriarch Michael to progressive supranuclear palsy in 2013, held a quiz night for the PSP Association in Harlow on Saturday, October 29.

The family, Michael's wife and five children, had set a target of £2,500 which would allow the charity to dedicate a tree to Mr Beament in its Woodland Trust site.

Amazing

The quiz night raised an amazing £1,143.24 which added to the £1,640.96 raised from their last event bringing the total to £2,784.20.

Around 90 guests attended the event held at Passmores Academy.

Mr Beament's daughter Jade said: "I can't thank everyone enough for their kind donations and their continued support. It was a massive success."

GUY FAWKES NIGHT: Crowds defy wet weather to enjoy display

Rain can't dampen spirits of 18,000 firework-lovers

DELIGHT: Crowds look up as the sky sparkles

COLOURFUL: The Harlow firework display
By Rob West (Tog Squad)

THOUSANDS of people defied the wet conditions to enjoy fireworks in the annual display on Sunday.

Around 18,000 people were estimated to have attended this year's event at the Showground in Harlow Town Park.

The bonfire was lit by chairman of Harlow Council, Edna Stevens, to a soundtrack of Take That's Relight My Fire and Disco Inferno by The Trammmps.

The firework display which lit up at 7pm had the sky alight with an array of colours and sparkles and was accompanied by some of the biggest tunes in the pop charts.

Performances

The evening was supported by Great Parndon Community Association and Harlow Playhouse, who treated guests to a variety of musical and dance performances.

Performances included the students from Hip Hop Pop, Harlow Ballet and The Pauline Quirke Academy, which featured a Jersey Boys tribute act.

Forever Jackson, Legacy of a Legend also took to the stage performing some of Michael Jack-

WRAPPED UP: Visitors braved the conditions to watch the fireworks son's biggest hits such as Thriller and Smooth Criminal.

A spokesperson from Harlow Playhouse on Twitter said: "Thanks to the 18,000 who came out tonight to enjoy our Playhouse Stage, the bonfire and fireworks."

"We hope you had as good a time as we did!"

Any donations from the night will be given to Friends of Harlow Sculpture and Gibberd Gallery, as chosen by Ms Stevens.

DANIEL ROBINSON & SONS

Independent Family

Funeral Directors and Monumental Masons

Established

WHY CHOOSE AN INDEPENDENT FUNERAL DIRECTOR?

In all forms of business today there are big national companies that have made their profits through taking over smaller firms. The funeral profession is no exception. Many businesses have changed hands but have not necessarily changed names. That makes it hard for you to distinguish between a family owned firm and the branch of a vast conglomerate. The independent funeral profession has a long and proud history of personal service to local communities. Carrying on the family tradition is a way of life for many independent funeral directors. They are deeply committed to upholding professional standards. Some of the oldest continuously operated businesses in Britain are family-owned firms. Without asking, you may never know if the owners your family have trusted over the years continue to make the decisions which will affect the service you will receive. So, when you need the services of a funeral director, please just ask. It's important that you know who you're speaking to.

Never be embarrassed to ask a funeral director to show you their premises or enquire about the likely costs. A reputable funeral director will be more than happy to answer any questions you may have as to whether there is a Chapel of Rest, whether their staff are qualified, what the fees are, if they have mortuary facilities on site and what age and what type of vehicles are available.

A good funeral director, like Daniel Robinson & Sons will be available 24 hours a day, 52 weeks of the year, offering an emergency service with free advice. All arrangements will be made on the family's behalf, either at the funeral home or in the privacy of the family's home.

A recent IPSOS Mori report highlighted in a survey of 500 towns in the UK where there was a Co-Op, Dignity & independent funeral director, that the independent funeral director offered the best value and service in every case.

WHY CHOOSE A PRE-PAID FUNERAL PLAN?

Pre-paid funeral plans are already established as a caring and responsible way of making arrangements. Services can be tailored to reflect an individual's personality, wishes and life.

With families living further apart and, in some cases moving abroad, it is not unusual for children or relatives to purchase a plan on behalf of an elderly or infirm relative or parent.

Pre-paid funeral plans are not normally regarded as forming part of a person's assets or estate, so therefore, in some circumstances this may enable the plan holder to claim benefits for which they may not otherwise qualify. This could even prove advantageous with situations involving inheritance tax.

The National Society of Allied & Independent Funeral Directors (SAIF), which Daniel Robinson & Sons are proud members of, recommend Golden Charter pre-paid funeral plans. Golden Charter work solely on behalf of 3,300 independent funeral directors throughout the UK.

Local independent funeral directors are proud that when plans are made with them they can use their local knowledge to personalise the pre-paid plan for the individual, with a good overview of the community that they serve. They will ensure that the most appropriate services and up to date price information is available, maintaining choice and providing a professional service. Daniel Robinson & Sons are committed to upholding their professional standards and providing both traditional and contemporary services. They are not distracted by corporate rules, meaning that they can concentrate on delivering a personal service to you and your family.

- Cover the cost of your funeral director's services at today's prices - a simple, practical way to beat rising funeral prices.
- Protect your family from the worry of funeral costs and put your mind at rest that all is taken care of.
- An opportunity, if you wish, to specify your wishes and preferences.

Buyer beware – do you know who will deliver the funeral?

There are many ways to purchase a Funeral Plan, however, it is recommended that you take the time to contact your local independent family funeral director for a more personal and knowledgeable service. This is because

- If you purchase a Funeral Plan over the internet, shop counter or telephone, the seller has no vested interest in ensuring that you receive the best service and value for your money at the time of need.
- Although you may be able to nominate a funeral director of your choice at the time you make the purchase, that funeral director may be offered far less money by the holder of the funds than you have paid them to provide the service. They therefore may be unable to accept the funeral, leaving the funeral to be allocated to a funeral director who is not local to you.
- Families sometimes feel pressurised by on-line and telephone salespeople to make a quick decision.

Why do Daniel Robinson & Sons use Golden Charter?

- The money is safely protected in a Trust Fund.
- Over half a million plan holders have already trusted them with their funeral arrangements.
- They are the UK's largest funeral plan provider – in recent years they've sold more plans than any other provider.
- The company is owned by independent funeral directors, of which there are 3300 throughout the UK - 62% of families in the UK prefer to use an independent funeral director.

To discuss your ideas, answer your questions and find out more, with no obligation to take out a plan, please contact Daniel Robinson & Sons for more information Your local branches:

POPPY APPEAL 2016

The Royal British Legion: The Facts

■ The British Legion was formed on May 15 1921, bringing together four national organisations of ex-Servicemen which had established themselves after the World War One.

■ The first Poppy Appeal was held in 1921. Red silk poppies, inspired by the famous First World War poem In Flanders Fields, sold out instantly and raised more than £106,000. The funds helped WW1 veterans find employment and housing after the war.

■ The following year, the Poppy Factory was set up, employing disabled ex-Servicemen to create the poppies to sell during the appeal. Today, the factory still produces millions of poppies each year.

■ The Legion was granted 'Royal' status in 1971.

■ The Poppy Appeal is the Legion's biggest fundraising campaign held every year in October and November; the period of Remembrance.

■ Anyone can become a member of The Royal British Legion. The Legion welcomes men and women of all ages, whether they have served in the Armed Forces or not, to continue the work that was begun nearly 100 years ago.

■ The Legion provides financial, social and emotional support to members and veterans of the British Armed Forces, their families and their dependants.

■ In 2016 the Legion wants to encourage the public not only to remember those who served in the First and Second World Wars, but also remember the sacrifices made by all generations of the Armed Forces.

■ During the Poppy Appeal 2016 over 45 million poppies will be distributed by 150,000 dedicated collectors.

■ The Legion runs a Contact Centre which operates 12 hours a day, seven days a week.

■ The Legion has close links to many other charities, organisations and trusts, enabling it to draw on the best resources and expertise, and to refer people to those best equipped to help them.

■ There are approximately 2,500 Royal British Legion branches across the UK and overseas providing comradeship and supporting the Legion as a charity.

■ The charity provided £27m to establish and operate The Battle Back Centre, in Lilleshall, Shropshire, which provides sports and adventurous training, as part of its commitment to support wounded, injured and sick Service personnel.

■ The Legion runs 16 Pop-in Centres across the country in cities including Manchester, London, Plymouth, Newcastle and Birmingham.

■ Each pop-in centre plays host to a welfare team who provide everything from food vouchers, to white and brown goods.

■ It also runs six care homes providing nursing care for 400 ex-servicemen and women and their dependants.

■ The Legion provides war pensions and compensation assistance to beneficiaries appealing decisions taken on payments.

■ The Legion has a team of 16 benefits, money and debt advisors who are community-based across the country. Some of the work they do includes providing representation at tribunals.

■ 'Poppy Break' centres are based in Merseyside, Somerset, Northern Ireland and East Yorkshire and the Legion also provide children's adventure holidays and respite breaks throughout each year.

■ The Legion's recovery through arts programme, 'Bravo 22 Company', has staged internationally touring theatrical productions as well as community-based arts projects for wounded, injured and sick personnel and veterans. Hollywood actor, Ray Winstone, is the project's ambassador.

■ 20 per cent of the proceeds of this page will be donated to The Poppy Appeal

Making contact

Coocooned in the tiny bubbles that constitute our lives, planet Earth seems huge – a polluted rock cluttered with billions of competing lifeforms, whose paths rarely intersect.

As our world turns, we rarely look past national borders, let alone tilt our heads to the stars and contemplate how insignificant we are in the vast expanse of space.

To me, it's inconceivable that of all the planets we can see with the most powerful telescopes or probes, and the millions that will remain forever hidden, only our astronomical home is capable of sustaining intelligent life. The greater surprise, surely, would be that we are alone.

Based on a short story by Ted Chiang, Arrival is contemplative science-fiction drama, which imagines mankind's shambolic reaction to first contact with an otherworldly race, and the dangerous fractures that would appear as nations disagree over the best course of action.

If governments can't cooperate over the environment, finance and immigration, what hope is there when we collectively face a possible extinction event?

Director Denis Villeneuve and screenwriter Eric Heisserer aren't interested in Independence Day-style pyrotechnics, although their film is punctuated with impressive special effects sequences.

Like Close Encounters Of The Third Kind, Arrival philosophises and digests before it considers locking and loading a weapon. Twelve giant obloid spacecraft enter Earth's atmosphere and descend over seemingly random locations including Devon, the Black Sea and a lush meadow in Montana.

US Army Colonel Weber (Forest Whitaker) leads the American response and he recruits emotionally scarred linguistics expert Dr Louise Banks (Amy Adams) to decipher a coded language used by the visitors.

Banishing painful memories of her young daughter's death, Louise aligns with military scientist Ian Donnelly (Jeremy Renner) to unravel the conundrum, while the CIA, led by Agent Halpern (Michael Stuhlbarg), considers the terrifying possibility that we are in the calm before an intergalactic storm.

"If this is some peaceful first contact, why send 12 ships? Why not send one?" asks a woman on a radio show, encapsulating the paranoia sweeping the globe.

As nations grow nervous, especially General Shang (Tzi Ma), chairman of the People's Liberation Army in China, Louise and Ian take potentially lethal leaps of faith to better understand the aliens' intentions. Meanwhile, Captain Marks (Mark O'Brien) and other subordinates under Weber's command debate a blunt show of force against the tentacled extra-terrestrials.

Anchored by Adams' mesmerizing performance, Arrival is an extremely stylish tale of grief and self-sacrifice that uncoils beautifully for two hours.

as flawed characters wrestle with agonizing questions of mortality.

To help support the live music scene in Harlow, we have teamed up with Music Venue Trust to offer you the chance to win a pair of tickets for a gig at Harlow's only independent live music venue The Square. www.thesquareharlow.com

That's entry for you plus one guest for a gig of your choice. The Square has seen the likes of The Subways, Rhoda Dakar and Chas & Dave grace their stage this year, despite a five month closure, and there's plenty more lined up for the rest of this year.

To be in with a chance of winning, we are asking you to tweet us telling us why you #loveyourvenue. This could be tales of your favourite gig, your best memory from a gig or even a funny anecdote or big celebration that took place at a gig – whatever the story, we want to hear it.

To enter please tweet us @Harlowstar and @MusicVenueTrust using the hashtag #loveyourvenue as well as your submission. Pictures are also welcome.

Please get involved and keep our live music venues alive and open #loveyourvenue.

Ts&Cs: Usual Harlow Star entry conditions apply. By entering, you confirm that you have read and accepted the terms and conditions. Entrants must be aged 16 or over. There will be only one prize winner, winning a pair of tickets to one chosen gig at The Square, Fourth Avenue, Harlow, Essex, CM20 1DW. Tickets are subject to availability, non-transferable and no cash alternative will be offered. The prize is provided by The Square and supported by Music Venue Trust.

'Some chefs should smile more'

The man behind Birmingham's first Michelin star is dishing up another batch of dinner-time delights in his new book, Rib Ticklers & Choux-Ins. All served with a healthy dose of humour, of course. Gemma Dunn tucks in with Glynn Purnell

HE'S been branded one of the trailblazers of new British cooking, but at the heart of Glynn Purnell's success is his refusal to take himself too seriously.

If he's not cracking jokes and reeling off witty anecdotes, the 'Yummy Brummie' is referring to himself as the Roger Federer of Birmingham's imploding culinary scene.

"Do you know what I mean?" he asks, with a cheeky grin.

"I'm always going to be remembered as something that broke the mould; the one who was awarded the first ever Michelin star in Birmingham [which happened in 2005, while he was head chef at Jessica's in Edgbaston]," says the forward-thinker.

"I'm still in the mix, so I like to see myself as a Roger Federer: I won't be No 1 all of the time, but it's great," the 41-year-old adds, chuckling. "Competition is great!"

And having achieved his childhood goal – "I never had any interest in passing GCSEs because I knew I was going to be a chef" – it seems Purnell, who today runs the Michelin-starred Purnell's restaurant and Purnell's Bistro in Birmingham's thriving city centre, has plenty to smile about.

Inspiration

His latest venture is the brilliantly-titled cookbook Rib Ticklers & Choux-Ins, a follow-up to 2014's Cracking Yolks & Pig Tales, and a tome he says was inspired by the more down-to-earth dishes served at his bistro, or "takeaway food at home".

Written with trademark wit, chapters range from "This little piggy went to market" to 'A moment on the lips'. It's infused with brunch, fish, meat and knockout dessert recipes, and peppered with yarns about perfecting his skills through years of reading women's magazines at the dentist, and why he has such a vendetta against sprouts.

"It's important as a chef to have your own personality, but then to be able to put that personality onto the page makes you different," reasons Purnell, who credits his publishers with giving him the creative freedom to put out a book that "sounds as if I'm talking to you".

"When I stop running restaurants, and when I stop doing what I'm doing, I want people to look back and go, 'Oh look, that's a Glynn Purnell dish', or when they come to the restaurant and eat a dish, they know they're not going to get that anywhere else in the world.

"It's important to keep hold of your personality," he continues. "I've been cooking in Michelin-star restaurants nearly all of my career, and chefs always want to perceive themselves as being a bit aggressive. I've moved on from that.

HAPPY CHAPPY: Glynn Purnell doesn't take himself too seriously

"I don't need to push my chest out and act like some sort of big grumpy chef that throws plates at people, because times have changed. For me, food is fun; you should have fun.

"Some chefs should smile a bit more – it wouldn't kill them!"

And a sense of joy is certainly a trait the father-of-three – Purnell has sons Oliver, 11, and Vincent, five, and eight-year-old daughter, Esme, with his wife, Kerry – is keen to encourage at home, too.

Residing in Warwickshire – "out in the sticks" – he fondly recalls weekends spent blackberry picking with his kids (and Whoops the family Jack Russell), to the slightly more obscure but spectacular tales of Esme requesting the "pretty" head of a dead pheasant to fashion a princess wand with, and Oliver's award-winning show-and-tell session, in which he presented a boiled and bleached pig's head.

His kids are foodies too, he states.

"They like the way it brings us all together. They love cooking and they're pretty clued up as well. If we go somewhere, they'll say, 'Oh Dad, that doesn't taste nice – there isn't enough...'," and I'm just thinking, 'Oh my God, I've created little food critics!'"

Revered for his long-standing culinary commitment to University College Birmingham and their Young Chef of the Year competition, plus hosting duties on BBC One's Saturday Kitchen and ITV's newly-announced Secret Chef, due next year, can he see himself finding time to expand the brand – perhaps for the Purnell juniors?

"I never say never," he retorts with a glint. "I think other cities are quite daunting, because everybody knows of me [in Birmingham]. If I went to London, would I just get swallowed up?

"I'm going to keep moving forward and carry on being the chirpy Brummie I always am!"

Fancy dishing up some of Birmingham's finest at home? Here are two recipes from Purnell's new book to get stuck in to...

SWEET SPICY STICKY RIBS

Serves 7

Ingredients

2tbsp vegetable oil
1 onion, thinly sliced
2 garlic cloves, thinly sliced
4 cloves
½ cinnamon stick
1tsp black onion seeds
1tsp ground ginger
1 rack of pork belly ribs, cut into individual ribs
150g caster sugar
50ml white wine vinegar
50ml dark soy sauce
1tbsp (large) tomato ketchup
2 medium-hot chillies, roughly chopped
1tbsp chopped coriander
Squeeze of lime juice

Method

Heat the oil in a large saucepan over a medium heat. Add the onion and garlic and cook until softened but only lightly coloured.

Add the cloves, cinnamon, onion seeds and ginger to the pan and then add the ribs. Cover all the ingredients with two litres of cold water (or enough to cover the ribs), then simmer for 30-40 minutes until the meat is tender. Drain the ribs (you can reserve the cooking liquid to make a sauce for another dish).

Heat a large frying pan, add the sugar, vinegar and soy sauce and boil the mixture until reduced to a thick consistency.

Add the ketchup to the pan, then stir in the ribs, coating well with the glaze. Add the chillies, coriander and a squeeze of lime juice, then serve. The ribs can be served with egg noodles or jasmine rice.

A little tip – instead of ribs, buy pork belly on the bone. That way you get free ribs and probably the best part of the pig.

WHITE & DARK CHOCOLATE CHEESECAKE WITH BANANA 'NON' ICE CREAM

Serves 6

Ingredients

150g digestive biscuits, crushed
½tsp ground cinnamon
½tsp ground ginger
80g salted butter
400g soft cream cheese
50ml double cream
1 vanilla pod, split lengthways and seeds scraped out
150g white chocolate, melted
1 tablespoon brandy (or other brown spirit, such as dark rum)

150g dark chocolate, melted
For the banana 'non' ice cream:
3 ripe bananas
Splash of banana liqueur
1tbsp brown sugar
300ml whipping cream, whipped to soft peaks

Method

Mix together the biscuits, cinnamon and ginger in a mixing bowl.

Melt the butter in a saucepan, then pour over the crushed biscuit mixture and mix together well.

Line the base of a 20-22cm flan tin with the biscuit mixture, pressing it down firmly using the back of a spoon, cover and chill in the fridge for two to four hours until firm.

Divide the cream cheese between two separate bowls.

Add the cream and vanilla seeds to one of the bowls and mix together, then fold the melted white chocolate into the cream cheese and vanilla mixture.

Add the brandy to the melted dark chocolate, then fold it into the other bowl.

Spoon the chocolate mixtures, alternating one at a time, onto the biscuit base, then take a spoon and swirl the mixture to create a marbled effect. Leave to set in the fridge for two hours.

For the banana 'non' ice cream, put the bananas in a blender and whiz to a smooth puree. Mix in the banana liqueur and sugar, then fold in the whipped cream.

Transfer the mixture to a lidded freezer-proof container and place in the freezer for about six hours until set. Stir occasionally while freezing.

Once both have set, cut the cheesecake into nice big slices and serve with a generous scoop of the banana 'non'-ice cream.

Banned Nordic Noir resurrected on stage

COMBINING suspense, intrigue and a Scandinavian setting, Harlow Theatre Company has all the right ingredients for another successful play.

The group will perform Ghosts at The Victoria Hall Theatre, in Bury Road, Harlow, from Wednesday, November 16 to Saturday November 19.

Before Nordic Noir came to be defined by The Killing, Arne Dahl and The Bridge on BBC 4 the genre had an unlikely following in America.

Amateur Danish actors in the States were the first to perform Norwegian play Ghosts which had previously been banned in Scandinavia and also in London.

All the thrill and mystery will be back for next week's startling new adaption which is directed by Brenda Jones.

She said: "Ghosts could be viewed as a prequel to today's popular Scandinavian noirs.

"It is certainly very Scandi and quite noir. Though not exactly a thriller, it is certainly gripping to watch the protagonists reveal their secrets."

Norwegian playwright Henrik Ibsen penned the play in 1881 and it was first performed a year later in Chicago, in translated English, and its challenging subject matter was met with negative reviews.

However, despite the writer performed in other parts of the world.

The plot follows a widow's family crisis after her rich and unfaithful husband Captain Alving dies.

Brenda said the end of the Captain is the beginning of the play and where the intrigue begins.

Ghosts will be performed at 8pm on each night with tickets costing £13 or £10 for concessions. For bookings and more information call 0333 666 3366 or visit www.victoriahalltheatre.co.uk

INTERIORS >with LESLEY TAYLOR

The bathroom is no longer purely about function. Add finishing touches as you would in any other room. Image shows the London Funk Compass range from The Baked Tile Company, www.bakedtiles.co.uk

Going in at the deep end

As a busy interior designer with my own business, I cannot stress how important it is to have a decent bathroom.

And I don't mean in terms of adding value to your home or impressing the neighbours (although a great bathroom will do both).

It's the place where we start and end most days, it's the room where we can unwind and relax, and for some, it's the only spot in the house we will ever get a moment's peace.

So you can see why it rates pretty high on my list of priorities.

But for some homeowners, the idea of undergoing a bathroom makeover can be terrifying.

I'm not going to lie, taking on a bathroom is no mean feat. But while it may be a big job, it doesn't have to be a stressful one – especially if you have the right team around you. Get it right and it will pay dividends.

Style and decor aside, a common theme in bathroom design today is that of open-plan living.

This desire for flowing space is taking the nation by storm and it's no longer confined to the ground floor.

Large, flowing suites that incorporate both bathing and sleeping/living areas are in high demand and as a result bathroom furniture and sanitaryware design has become far more versatile.

The very latest designs wouldn't look out of place in a bedroom so work well to create a perfect and harmonious flow between the two sections. These product developments have helped to ensure the bathroom can now be as personal as any other room in the home.

Dare to dream

It has also become even more apparent that the bathroom's role is evolving, never to return to its purely-practical existence.

The bathroom is now a place where we can retreat after a hard day, a place we can find solitude and comfort and a place where more and more effort is being made to ensure the highest level of aesthetic appreciation.

Whereas before, function used to reign high-above style, these two elements now work in harmony to ensure the space fulfils all bathing desires while at the same time looks fabulous.

For many, comfort is key this year. Stark minimalism is less popular and we're seeing a welcomed return to lavish opulence that welcomes and cocoons the bather, making them feel as comfortable and secure as possible. Gold brassware, textured wall covering, natural stone tiles, ornate Italian-style furniture and roll-top baths have all made their mark in the bathroom recently.

Natural beauty

A little tip for anyone embarking on a bathroom project this season: don't get too carried away with colour. You may feel the need to inject lots of vibrant shades into the scheme but it will soon become outdated.

A better and more cost-effective way is to start with a neutral base on the walls and floor, such as timeless marble, then accessorise until your heart's content using the current season's hottest patterns, hues and materials. Then, you can look forward to a bathroom that evolves with the times.

It's currently a very exciting time to be involved in bathrooms, not just for designers but for you, the homeowner too. There is more choice than ever before and with price points varying widely, all budgets can be catered for.

So take your new found energy and put it to good use – give your bathroom a makeover to be proud of, even if it involves a lick of paint, a new set of bath towels and a few candles. The smallest of changes can sometimes make the biggest difference.

Open plan bathrooms are becoming increasingly popular

A new coat of paint and some bold accessories will give your bathroom a whole new look and feel. But be wary about choosing colours that will date quickly

PROPERTY TALK

>with NIGEL LEWIS

It's hardly a bleak house

STEVEN Spielberg was recently described as a modern-day Charles Dickens for his ability to tell a brilliant story.

But while Spielberg's work continues including recent filming in Birmingham for his latest movie Ready Player One, Dickens is of course long gone leaving behind his dozen or more novels including most famously, Bleak House.

Published in 1853 it satirises the then inefficient English legal system and particularly the anguish caused by poorly-made wills.

The book is set in and around a property called Bleak House and although it's a fictional location, a real Bleak House survives today. It's where Dickens and his family holidayed regularly between 1837 and 1859 and where he wrote much of his 1849 novel David Copperfield.

Dickens loved the property and wrote in one of its upper rooms overlooking Viking Bay and Broadstairs harbour in Kent. Today it is a five-star guest house full of Dickens memorabilia including his writing desk, as well as being run as a wedding venue. It also includes a museum dedicated to the area's smuggling history and folklore.

The current owners refurbished the Grade II listed property in 2012 and it has seven bedrooms, five bathrooms and many of its original features including ornate coved ceilings, picture rails, superb fireplaces, decorative archways and an awe inspiring mahogany staircase.

But the property's connections to Dickens are not its only literary ones.

Children's author Hans Christian Andersen also holidayed at the property.

■ Bleak House is now for sale via local agent Terence Painter (01843 866866) for £3.1 million.

Where Sting was stung by love

MOST people in relationships can recollect where they first met their partner and for Sting and his wife Trudie Styler, it was a stucco-fronted square in central London.

The pair lived there during the late 1970s in separate apartments on Leinster Square and it wasn't until a hot summer's day in 1977 that Trudi spotted him walking down the street.

Sting was then already married with a small boy, had green hair and The Police had only just formed.

But four years later Sting and Trudie began an affair and in 1983 she fell pregnant while on the road as The Police toured that year's hit album, Synchronicity. The couple went on to marry in 1992 and have four children.

Leinster Square is a shadow of its former self. Once a place where struggling musicians and actors could afford to live it is now only for London's very wealthy.

A few doors down from Sting's old basement flat developer Alchemi Group has restored five properties at 13-19 Leinster Square, which is in Notting Hill.

It will contain 15 homes including lateral and triplex apartments with either three or four bedrooms, which are now available to buy off-plan. Prices start at £5.995m within the development, which is called The Hudson Collection.

Leinster Square, like many private squares of its kind in the capital, also has a private garden at its centre that only residents can use. This is currently also being renovated by Alchemi Group.

Former boozier's Quadrophenia role

AS LOCATIONS go this former pub has proved unusually popular with movie and TV drama producers.

It was converted into flats and offices during the late 1980s but during its beer serving days the pub featured in 1951 film The Lavender Mob starring Alec Guinness, 1970s TV series The Sweeney, the 1977 film The Squeeze starring Stacy Keach and the 1986 Sex Pistols movie Sid and Nancy.

But the pub is best known for its appearance in the defining popular movie of the 1970s, Quadrophenia starring Leslie Ash, Sting, Raymond Winstone, Tony Wilcox, Michael Elphick and Timothy Spall, to name a few of its stellar cast.

The film focuses on a bank holiday weekend during which gangs of mods and rockers stalk both London and Brighton, looking for fights.

In a famous scene, mod Spider played by Gary Shail is attacked by rockers when his scooter breaks down outside the pub, and its place in British film history was assured.

There were calls to prevent the boozier from being converted but it has now become a sought-after place to live in London's Notting Hill. A four-bedroom, three bathroom apartment within the building is for sale at £1.4 million through agent Dexters featuring a huge reception room, dining room, open plan kitchen and a roof terrace.

The property is also ideally suited for local shops, bars, restaurants and cafés plus there's a tube station around the corner.

US mansion that packs a punch

Fans of the Rocky movies starring Sylvester Stallone got a treat last year when the sixth film in the series, Creed, was released.

It was the first not to be written and directed by Stallone but still features his main character, Rocky Balboa. The film follows Donnie Creed, the son of Rocky's late friend and fellow boxer Apollo Creed, as he trains to be a boxer with help from Rocky, but against the wishes of his step-mother.

The film's grittier urban scenes are set and filmed in Philadelphia but by contrast Donnie and his rich step-mum are portrayed as living in an upmarket mansion.

The property in real life is a 16,130-square-foot house on Buck Road in affluent Huntingdon Valley near Philadelphia and in the film several scenes are shot outside its opulent entrance gate, living room and vertiginous double staircase.

The house has six bedrooms, eleven bathrooms, a guest suite, huge fireplaces, chandeliers and a grand foyer plus a games room with arcades, an indoor putting green and home theatre. Outside there's a pool overlooking the property's five acres of gardens, lawn and forest.

It was built by a man who Rocky Balboa would identify with. He was a 'rags to riches' auto-parts millionaire called Michael Cardone who was a coal miner's son who established one of Philadelphia's largest auto parts companies from scratch.

The property is expected to sell for auction this month for approximately $1.8 million.

It's got a concierge knight and day

THE Knights Templar were until recently a largely forgotten medieval religious and military order. But that all changed in 2003 when author Dan Brown's thriller The Da Vinci Code was published.

The book went on to sell over 80 million copies around the world and in 2006 was made into a film starring Tom Hanks.

The book creates a fictitious but central role for the order as guardians of a terrible secret; that Christ's disciple Mary Magdalene bore him a daughter called Sarah who was then brought up in what is now modern-day France.

But in the UK the Knights Templar's history and influence are all too real.

During the 12th and 13th century, although initially set up to 'liberate' the Holy Land, they went on to be financiers and military adventurers for several kings before the organisation fell from grace.

But despite persecution, until the 14th century they had a London headquarters on what is now The Strand.

It later became Essex House, which was built on the site in 1590 for the then Earl of Essex.

His home was later demolished, its replacement then bombed during WWII and after a short stint as a car park the site had offices built on it.

These are now being converted into flats by developer RER. The first ones are available and when completed Aldwych Chambers will contain 20 high-spec luxury homes. Prices start at £1.075m for a one-bedroom rising to £1.67 million for a two-bedroom duplex.

Smaller Audi, smaller price - bigger appeal

By Ian Donaldson

CARS long ago ceased to be simply a means of getting from A to B. The new Audi Q2, for instance, is 'the latest tool for modern living,' according to its maker.

If that sounds about as emotionally involving as a plate of cold bratwurst, consider that this smallest SUV in the Audi range is also 'an essential life prop.'

Peer through those lifestyle utterings and you'll find a car that deserves better than phrases that mean an empty nothing; it's a good drive and will sell in shedloads.

In fact, Audi reckons it will become the fourth best seller in its UK line up, with around 15,000 of them finding homes here each year (FYI; the A3 is top of the sales chart with double that number), but don't bet against Q2 numbers climbing.

Worldwide, around half of all new Audis are now SUVs, headed by the huge and faintly menacing bulk of the Q7, with the Q5 and Q3 following in descending size order.

Now the Q2 doorstops the Audi SUVs with a car that manages to look chunky and tough without the visual thuggery of its older siblings. It also starts at the moment with £22,380 for a 1.4-litre petrol version, which looks positively bargain basement in Audi terms.

And, before year end, there'll be an even cheaper 1.0-litre petrol model that will cost just £20,230 in entry level SE trim.

The current Q2 engine choice is between the 150 horsepower 1.4 TFSI or a 116 horsepower 1.6-litre TDI diesel with the latter a scant £100 dearer in all the three trim levels on offer - SE, Sport and S line.

Only 15 per cent of Q2 owners are likely to take their car at SE level, with most heading for the £1,550 dearer Sport models that add satellite navigation, cruise control, bigger alloy wheels, sports front seats, auto lights and wipers, a choice of four driving modes (which will stiffen the suspension, for instance) and modest bodywork changes to tell the cars apart.

Pay another £2,250 and you arrive at the S line, expected to woo a significant 40 per cent of sales with changes that include powerful LED headlights and rear lights but are mostly cosmetic and add a bit of the visual aggression of bigger Audi SUVs, from enlarged front air intakes to sculpted side sills.

If that's not enough, there is the Q2 Edition 1, starting at £31,170 and topping out at £35,730 for a 2.0-litre diesel with quattro four-wheel drive. Stand out features are special Quantum grey paint, black alloy wheels and other black body parts adding a touch of menace.

Inside, you'll find sports seats in soft nappa leather and an LED package that includes dash and door inlays that light up softly.

Every Q2 has what Audi calls a C-pillar blade but you might know as the bit behind the rear doors. It comes here in four different, contrasting colours (grey, silver, titanium or grey) depending on the grade of the car.

Standard kit across the range includes low speed automatic braking if you're not paying attention and extra cash brings an instrument panel with TV screen definition, head-up display and adaptive cruise control that will take most of the drudgery out of slow speed driving by stopping and starting the car in line with the traffic ahead.

Audi sees the MINI Countryman as a key competitor and a comparison shows how relatively small the Q2 is, at 4,191mm nose to tail only 94mm (or less than four inches) longer and a little lower and lighter and larger of boot into the bargain.

It doesn't look that small, and drives like a larger car too. If Audi was once knocked soundly for building cars with suspension too stiff for British roads (it was and it did) that no longer applies with the Q2.

Tellingly, the Q2 in its most overtly 'sporty' S line guise comes with non-sport springing but can be stiffened at no extra cost. The test car had been, yet drove some indifferent Suffolk roads with controlled aplomb.

The 1.4 TFSI petrol engine, matched to a fine seven-speed automatic gearbox (£1,550 extra) punted the car along very nicely indeed and showed 42.2mpg at journey's end.

A 1.6 diesel tried in most softly sprung SE trim actually coped markedly less well with poor roads, feeling stiff and unyielding at times. It also made more engine noise but pulled strongly and topped 55mpg on the same route.

Either engine sits nicely in a car that has hit the madly expanding desire for SUVs at precisely the right time, and at prices that are going to raise eyebrows - for the right reason.

"Positive living and learning for people with epilepsy and other complex needs"

SG10 6EW (near Harlow/ Bishop's Stortford/ Ware)

I love the variety of activities!

I get to spend quality time with residents and make a positive difference!

CARE & SUPPORT WORKERS Full / Part time permanent roles

(These involve a mixture of early and late shifts, working alternate weekends)

Typical annual earnings c.£18,000 a year

Weekend work only and Casual hours also available

Our fantastic teams provide quality specialist residential care and support to adults of all ages with complex neurological conditions, epilepsy and learning / other disabilities. In this rewarding role, you will enable independent living and provide personalised support to a number of people in social, leisure and household activities and also assist with personal care.

We expect compassion, empathy, respect and great team work skills. Previous experience is not essential as we offer full excellent free ongoing training, following comprehensive induction and a number of 'shadow shifts' with an experienced team member. As an Investor in People we also offer a support to gain qualifications including a QCF Diploma in Health and Social Care plus great opportunities to progress your career.

Excellent staff benefits include generous holidays, Life assurance, Pension scheme, Childcare voucher scheme, High street discounts, Cafeteria and Free on-site Parking. Enhanced rates paid for weekends.

Not on a public transport route, we offer subsidised transport from a range of points in Harlow, Sawbridgeworth, Bishop's Stortford and Thorley. Relocation assistance offered subject to criteria.

To find out more and to apply, please visit www.stelizabeths.org.uk. Alternatively, e-mail recruitment@stelizabeths.org.uk or call (01279) 844493.

Offers are subject to pre-employment checks including an enhanced DBS check.

Public Notices

Essex County Council

(High Street (Roydon Lock Level Crossing), Roydon)
(Temporary Prohibition of Traffic)
Order 2016

Notice is hereby given that the Essex County Council intends, not less than seven days from the date of this notice, to make the above Order under Section 14(1) of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984.

Effect of the order: To temporarily close that length of High Street (Roydon Lock Level Crossing), in the Parish of Roydon in the District of Epping Forest from a point 10 metre either side of Roydon Lock Level Crossing.

The closure is scheduled to commence on 24th
November 2016 00:55 to 05:00 and 25th November 2016 00:55 to 04:30 or where appropriate signs are showing and weather permitting.

The closure is required for the safety of the public and workforce while a track inspection is undertaken.

The alternative route will be via High Street B181,
Harlow Road, Roydon Road, Elizabeth Way A1169, A414, High Street B181 and vice versa.

Access for emergency service vehicles and pedestrians will be maintained at all times during the closure.

The Order will come into effect on 24th November 2016 and may continue in force for 18 months or until the works have been completed, whichever is the earlier.

Liz Burr, Head of Network Management, County Hall, Chelmsford

TAURUS APRIL 21 - MAY 21

Things didn't go exactly to plan last week. You did learn a lot about what close ones can offer to your future though. You see what you need to do to ensure things are tied up to your satisfaction. Ring now to hear why you need to be careful of paying for debts that aren't yours.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 349 65p per minute

GEMINI MAY 22 - JUNE 21

Try to think outside the box this week and you will soon see that solving any problems is easy. Emotions got the better of you last weekend, but this week you all start to work together again as a team. Ring now to make the most of life and love.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 350 65p per minute

CANCER JUNE 22 - JULY 22

Careful of telling lies, as it is clear from this week's line up that they can and will come back on you. Knowing who you can and can't trust in the family will help you to work out who you can share new personal information with. Ring now for an extraordinary love prediction.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 351 65p per minute

LEO JULY 23 - AUGUST 23

You may be upset with a close one for not telling the truth, but the stars tell me that they really feel they did not have much of a choice. Pisceans link to a better social life which is opening up for you over the coming weeks. Ring now to hear how romance brings revelations.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 352 65p per minute

VIRGO AUGUST 24 - SEPTEMBER 22

You have not been putting yourself first my friend. If you don't think you're worthy of a break then why should anyone else? Too much time talking about other's lives has stopped you from putting energy into your own. Ring now so that I can help you to change this fact.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 353 65p per minute

LIBRA SEPTEMBER 23 - OCTOBER 23

Your confidence is given a boost by new faces who make you feel special. You were living a life of routine and habit, but that is broken over the coming days by some really exciting characters. Ring now to hear why it's worth filling in forms again.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 354 65p per minute

SCORPIO OCTOBER 24 - NOVEMBER 21

News on someone you used to have lot of time for sees you feeling nostalgic. You start to realise how much a certain person and situation taught you. Fellow Scorpios link to solo business ventures which have success written all over them. Ring now for a romantic revelation.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 355 65p per minute

SAGITTARIUS NOVEMBER 22 - DECEMBER 20

Stop looking at who to blame and focus on moving on with your life. Why let the past drag you back when the future has so much to offer. You're a calmer soul than the one who entered November. Ring now to hear which sign I think is responsible for this.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 356 65p per minute

CAPRICORN DECEMBER 21 - JANUARY 20

Happy times link to you at last doing what you want. Instead of what family have pressured you into. For a moment last month I was losing you, but you're back and stronger and more determined than ever to be the very best version of you. Ring now for clear vision.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 357 65p per minute

AQUARIUS JANUARY 21 - FEBRUARY 19

Try to give thoughtful advice when asked questions by those around you. You may not realise it, but the stars are casting you in a really wise light which will make others gravitate towards your guidance and insight. Ring now to hear how your house of love spells mischief.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 358 65p per minute

PISCES FEBRUARY 20 - MARCH 20

You no longer think what if, but you think how and when. Your element of water makes it possible for you to second guess what others will do next. This also enables you to make the best professional and financial deals this week. Ring now to reveal all.

Canons Brook land big title

CANONS Brook Golf Club picked up their first major trophy since 2009 by winning the Leslie Wood plate at Crondon Park Golf Club.

They beat Stock Brook Manor golf club 6-4 in the final last month, to round off another successful season for the club.

The team (pictured left) were able to cross the final hurdle after a number of cup runs for both the men's and ladies' teams in recent years.

Knowing he was up against strong opposition, manager Darren Pegram, probably somewhat inspired by the Americans in their recent Ryder Cup victory, followed Davis Love III's action plan by sending out his 'big guns' early, in an attempt to gain an important psychological advantage.

Two and half points were quickly racked up from the first three games as Adam Gibbs (1up) and Peter Overington (2&1) won and Mark Hatcher halved his game.

As expected, Stoke Brook Manor fought back in the mid matches collecting three points from four games, Alan Goff's victory on the last (1up) ensured that the match remained all square.

Victory was never in doubt for the highly confident captain however, with Dave White (4&3) and Roydon Weekes (5&4) confirming the win and Tom Breheny halving his game to complete to complete a fine victory by 'The Brook' lads.

IN BRIEF

New record for Carinne

RUNNING: Carinne Jay created a new Harlow Running Club record in the Female Vet 50 category, completing the Gunpowder parkrun 5K in 21min 48sec.

She finished in 20th place out of 194 finishers and first Female with her personal best time at the event in Waltham Abbey.

Jay also picked up the Decathlon Club Member of the Month Award for October, after winning silver and bronze medals in her age category at the Tiptree 10 Mile and Pleshey Half Marathon respectively.

Meanwhile, at the Stevenage Half Marathon Sean Flynn finished in 138th place out of 514 finishers in 1hr 43min 22sec and John Tennant was 139th in 1.43:24.

Gymnasts do club proud

GYMNASTICS: There was success for Harlow Gymnastics Club as they picked up a bronze medal at the Essex County Team Levels Competition.

The HGC team, comprising Charlotte Brough (14), Halle Andrews Clark (16), Taylah Andrews Clark (16), Amelia Harrington (8) and Olivia Williams (9) competed in the event in Colchester.

Head coach and club co-owner Gordon Mitchell said: "Team competitions are always difficult and our team gave their all. The gymnasts all gave solid performances and have done club proud."

Teams from top level clubs from all over the Essex competed at the event where the format is 5-4-3, meaning that there are five gymnasts on each team, four compete on each event, and the top three scores count.

Liz on fire for ladies

HOCKEY: Harlow ladies' first team moved up to fourth in the Essex Women's League Division One with a 5-1 win at Romford.

Captain Liz Green opened the scoring, before Anita Shearman added a second soon after.

Romford fought back after the break and made it 2-1 from a penalty corner, but Green grabbed a second to restore their two goal lead.

The Harlow skipper was on fire, she netted two more goals to take her tally for the day up to four, and completed a resounding victory.

She has now scored 19 goals in just eight games this season.

The ladies travel to third-placed Old Loughtonians III on Saturday.

Boxer wants another gold

BOXING: Young boxer Harry Dickson is hoping to come home with another gold medal from the King of the Ring tournament in Borås, Sweden on November 25.

The 16-year-old from Harlow picked up a gold at the event last year, and is representing Hoddesdon Boxing Academy in two weeks' time.

Weston's wonderful hat-trick helps climb Harlow Rugby Club surge to the table's summit

London Three North East
Ilford 5
Harlow 45

MICHAEL WESTON'S hat-trick helped Harlow rise to the top of the London Three North East table at the weekend with their fifth win in a row.

They ran in seven tries in the 45-5 victory over rock bottom Ilford, who fought hard and managed a consolation try right at the death.

Ilford's large pack made it very difficult for Harlow to get clean ball out to their back line in the opening stages.

It was not until the 15th minute that flanker Weston managed to break free and cross the line for Harlow's first try of the afternoon.

As the half progressed Harlow's backs were finding more space.

An excellent attacking run from Alfie Clark set up the next scoring opportunity, he beat his winger before off loading to Andrew Tarsey who touched the ball down.

Ross Stalley converted to give them a 12-0 lead at the break.

Harlow were looking for a strong second half performance to improve their points difference against the winless hosts.

They started well and the backs overturned the ball, allowing Clark the space to score his first try of the afternoon. Stalley converted again.

They secured their bonus point on the hour mark. Quick passing from Ryan McGlone and Tarsey released Weston for his second try and Harlow's fourth. Stalley's conversion made it 24-0 with 20 minutes left.

The game opened up in the next ten minutes which allowed Harlow to put the result beyond doubt.

Weston scored a great individual try for his hat-trick before substitute Teddy Treble scored his maiden try for the first team. Stalley was successful with both the conversions.

Impressive

Treble finished off an impressive second half performance from the men in red with his second try of the game.

Ilford never stopped battling and managed to cross the white-wash for a consolation try in the last minute of the game.

Harlow host Ely on Saturday in the second round of the RFU Senior Vase Competition.

The Rams beat Maldon second XV 79-0 and are firmly in second place in Division Three of the merit league, their only defeat of the season was to league leaders Thurrock. The game was marred by tragedy however, after Harlow player Dean Read collapsed on the pitch and later died. For more on this, see the front page.

Judo joy at home competition

YOUNG Harlow Judo Club members represented the club with great success as they hosted their annual event at Harlow Leisurezone.

The standard of judo was high throughout with a number of strong clubs attending, but Harlow's young squad weren't fazed and returned with 13 trophies in the U16 12th Mon (Green belts) and below competition.

That included a haul of five gold medals, won by Kenzie Deamer (10), George Franks (10), Ralfy Webb (9), Jake Salhi (12) and Giacomo Misuraca (14).

Seth Horsely (9), Kane Horsley (11), Sam Cobbin-Brown (9) and Sofia Kafas (9) all picked up silver trophies, while Irvin Camara (9), Fleur Salhi (10), Freddy Harvey (9) and Thomas Norman (9) won bronze.

Charlie Armstrong (9) was fifth and just missed out on a podium place and Owen Lambert (11) was unplaced having lost his first two fights.

Both Charlie and Owen had graded very recently and this meant that they were fighting in their next respective grade section, with older opponents. Owen also had added pressure as the grading meant he had gone up a weight group.

Lots of the players had been graded recently which meant that some of them went up to the next belt category, facing new competitors and weight groups.

All players fought extremely well and junior team manager, Sarah Brown, was delighted with the squad's efforts: "The standard of the squad's judo was very good, however, there is always room for improvement."

"They all listened well to instruction and I'm glad most of them came away with something as well as a trophy."

The event was oversubscribed meaning some entries were turned away, but the day would not have been possible without the organisers, committee members and parents who volunteered in different areas of the event, especially before and after the competition.

MOTIVATED: Paralympic star Richard Chiassaro (number two)

Chiassaro's hoping to come to the fore

Funding boost for Paralympian on road to Tokyo

By Matt Storey

matt.storey@hertsexnews.co.uk

RICHARD CHIASSARO is hoping that increased funding and the potential retirement of wheelchair racing rival David Weir can help him raise his profile further and move up to the next level in the coming year.

The Harlow-based athlete has enjoyed the best form of his career in 2016, putting the fastest times in the world on the board in the T54 400m and 800m.

He finished ahead of six-time Paralympic gold medallist Weir in the 400m final in Rio, only for the national media to focus on Weir's failures rather than Chiassaro's success, something he has found tough to deal with.

"I found it hard that when I came fourth in Rio, in the final of the 400m, nobody said anything to me.

"They were all focussed on why Dave didn't beat me. It wasn't 'well done you beat Dave'. That is tough.

"That comes with his profile, doesn't it? Even when I'm beating him.

"He reckons he's retiring from the track next year, but he said that last year so we'll just have to wait and see what happens."

Chiassaro also believes that the relay side will have a good chance at the World ParaAthletics Championships in London next year, with Weir unlikely to take part.

He seemingly stopped trying during his leg of the T54 4x400m relay after Chiassaro had given the team every chance of securing a medal with a blistering open leg.

Awesome

He added: "He was the one with the issue, it was nobody else.

"If you look at the splits in the relay, mine was quick!

"I felt less pressure being behind a team, so when I did my first lap, I knew that there was three other guys and I knew that we could bang out an awesome time.

"But what happened, happened. We'll just sort out somebody else to take over in the relay and maybe, maybe win it at the World Championships next year."

Despite the controversies, Chiassaro described his Rio experi-ience as 'awesome', despite being slightly worried ahead of going out there.

"Honestly, I was worried going out there with all the funding cuts [to Rio venues] they were going on about in the news.

"But the village was just amazing, I'd never experienced anything like it.

"The only thing that I'd say was bad, was the journey back and forth to the track every day.

"On a good day, it took an hour, so if you had a heat in the morning you'd leave at stupid times.

"The village was awesome, the apartment was great, apart from the travel, it was very good."

His performances over the year have seen Chiassaro promoted to the podium potential category of British Athletics' World Class Performance Programme, which will allow him more funding for warm weather training and more access to the medical facilities, should he need them.

Heading into 2017, Chiassaro has vowed to stop showing so much respect to his fellow athletes and focus on his main strength, his speed, in all his races.

"My top speed is better than probably 99 per cent of the other racers.

"That's what I'm going to use from now on, to not show so much respect to other racers and just go out and do what I know I can do.

"My aim next year is to take the lead in all my races. I know I can knock out a 1min 32sec time in the 800m, which would have won me gold in Rio, I just bottled it."

Dickens pens Hawks deal

CHARLIE DICKENS signed for Harlow Town on Monday, with Danny Chapman admitting he had been keeping an eye on the young defender all season.

Dickens has been playing for Ashford United in the Southern Counties Premier League, but trained with the Hawks in the summer.

Chapman said he wanted the 19-year-old to get more games under his belt before signing him, but is excited to work with the centre-back.

He explained: "We had Charlie in over the summer training with us and we really liked him. The problem was he needed to play games and look to improve, which we couldn't offer him.

"So he went back to Ashford and he's played lots of football over the last few months and we've kept an eye on him.

"We felt now was the time to bring him in and he can add some strength to our squad.

"We'll wait and see if he's thrown straight in or not, I'll pick the side I think can win the game, whatever that might be.

"He might have to bide his time and wait for his chance, but he's one I'm excited about and really looking forward to working with. He's a good, honest lad which is what we want in our squad."

The Hawks travel to Brightlingsea Regent on Saturday in the FA Trophy second round qualifying, with Chapman drawing inspiration from Bognor Regis Town's run to the semi-final last year.

"It's a big competition for us, it's a competition you can go far in with a bit of luck. You only need to look at Bognor Regis and what they did last year to see that.

"The FA Trophy is the FA Cup of non-league really and if you get some luck with the draw, there's no reason you can't have a really good run in it."

Ryman North side Brightlingsea are second in the league and will provide a tough test for Chapman's side. They are unbeaten in 11 games.

New men in for Leopards

LEVETT Essex Leopards have announced the signing of former England and Great Britain international Perry Lawson.

The Leopards have struggled so far this season and have brought in the experienced point-guard to try and turn their form around.

He was recently at London Lions, but the 34-year-old played NCAA Division One basketball at South Georgia Tech.

He was also a key part of the Newcastle Eagles 2006 team that won the clean sweep of BBL Championship, BBL Play-offs, BBL Cup and BBL Trophy.

The club are also close to Darrell Bethune putting pen to paper from league rivals Leicester Warriors.
